Leader of the Russian farm delegation visiting Kelowna today E. N. Nevsky of Moscow peers into one of the huge vats at Sun-Rype on a brief tour.

With him, but not in this picture, are A. I. Osipov, Moscow; A. T. Shilo of Uzhgorod and P. I. Kalesnikov from Krasnodar, all regional heads of large USSR co-operatives.

They said highlight of tour was pleasant reception from Canadian co-ops.

Finland Feels Bear Hug On New Moscow Demand

HELSINKI (AP) — Renewed Russian pressure for Soviet-Finnish consultations on joint defence was viewed gravely by the Finns today and a government meeting was expected to be called.

A source close to Finland's government explained that its policy has been "to avoid, if possible, an agreement with the Russian view that there really exists an immediate threat of war in the Baltic area."

Three Children Die In Blaze

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three children burned to death today in a fire which erupted suddenly in the basement of their grandfather's home where they were sleeping. Three other children in the home were carried to safety.

Firemen said a fourth child may have been trapped.

The home was that of Rev. H. R. Ross on West First Avenue in Vancouver's Point Grey district.

Names of the children were not immediately available.

The Soviet proof took the form of a declaration by First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov to Finnish Ambassador Euro Wuori in Moscow Thursday.

Kuznetsov said "alarming news" made a threat of West German aggression seem even worse than on Oct. 30, when Moscow first asked for the consultations. He claimed there was a direct threat to the security of both nations and called for joint talks as soon as possible.

The news he cited came under three headings:

1. The visit of West German Defence Minister Franz Joseph Strauss to Norway, like West Germany a member of the North Atlantic Alliance, and his talks there on military co-operation.
2. Imminent NATO manoeuvres off the Baltic islands of Denmark, another member of the alliance.
3. Reports in Danish newspapers that a Danish-West German agreement on a joint command soon would be reached.

Russia's Oct. 30 request for defence consultations was based on the terms of a friendship treaty with Finland signed in 1948.

Douglas Dislikes 'NDP'

T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, doesn't want the party's name abbreviated to NDP.

He advised his followers in Peterborough, Ont., again here Friday against using the three-letter tag. He said the name should be used full out—the New Democratic Party.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy had a spill Friday when her horse balked at a jump while she was riding with the Piedmont Hunt near Upperville, Va.

State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington said Friday the United States will stand by its Ottawa offer to transfer eventually some share in American nuclear warheads control to NATO powers but he said the problem is of "utmost complexity" and indicated no easy solution is in sight.

Premier Fanfan urged Friday in Rome that the United Nations reconsider its policies in the Congo and said Italy was justified in putting the topic on the UN agenda, following the massacre of 13 Italian UN airmen by Congolese.

Two Die In Coast Accident Rash

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two persons died and several were injured in a rash of traffic accidents overnight and early today on rain-slicked streets in Lower Mainland centres.

Mrs. Nellie Iverson, 79, died in hospital three hours after being struck down by a car as she crossed a Vancouver intersection late Friday.

In New Westminster a man was killed when struck by a car in front of the Royal Columbian Hospital.

His identity was not given immediately.

Rebel Congolese Ordered To Shoot at UN Bombers

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Rebel Congolese troops in Kivu province today were reported under orders to fire on United Nations planes after UN bombing attacks against them.

Reports reaching here Friday said UN planes made air attacks on three strongholds of mutinous central government troops who massacred 13 Italian airmen a week ago.

The other planes were reported to have bombed pockets of mutineers at Pongt, 45 miles east of the Kindu massacre site, at Samba Kasongo railroad station southwest of Kindu and at Kimbo, about 60 miles south of Kindu.

The Congolese area commander was reported to have ordered his troops to open fire on any UN or central Congo planes.

Malayan UN troops were standing by, ready to move into the mutiny centres around Kindu to bring the rebel troops under control by force.

Meanwhile, Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo said UN and national Congolese troops were pinned down in Albertville, the northern Katanga town on Lake Tanganyika where anti-Katanga Baluba tribesmen seized control last week.

Munongo said a pro-Katanga resistance movement was forming in and around Albertville.

In Kivu, about half of the 1,500 Congolese troops in the province mutinied last week, surrounded 200 Malayan troops in Kindu and shot the 13 Italian airmen after they landed with a cargo of scout cars for the Malayans.

CLC Calls For Subsidies To Aid Shipping Lines

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress called Friday for federal subsidies to Canadian shipowners to help them compete with foreign competitors.

A resolution passed by the CLC executive council said such subsidies should be contingent on the shipping lines building, repairing and maintaining their ships in Canadian yards.

The CLC suggested water freight subsidies for goods carried in vessels built and registered in Canada.

It also asked that the Canadian Maritime Commission investigate the decline of the country's deep-sea merchant fleet and the extent of government assistance needed to revive the service.

In another resolution, the council endorsed the government's proposal for a six-mile territorial sea limit and an additional six-mile exclusive fishing zone.

The group asked the government to take the necessary steps to restrict foreign as well as Canadian trawlers from fishing within the 12-mile limit.

'Bug' May Warn Of Enemies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to "bug" the ocean floor with thousands of underwater microphones to warn against submarine intruders is under consideration by the U.S. Navy.

The underwater alarm system 500 to 1,000 miles offshore, would be so expensive, however, it would make the Air Defence Command's Distant Early Warning line seem cheap by comparison.

DEW is a radar warning system stretching across the north from Alaska eastward through northern Canada to the British Isles.

The system was under discussion this week at a three-day navy meeting on underwater sonar techniques. The conference at White Oak, Md., was so hush-hush, one participant said, that even the mid-meeting cocktail party was classified and the bartenders had to be cleared for security.

Portuguese Rebel Barred

CASABLANCA (Reuters) — Portuguese rebel leader Capt. Henrique Galvao, who seized the liner Santa Maria by force in January, was expelled from Morocco Friday.

Six of his lieutenants, who took over a Portuguese airliner last week and showered anti-government leaflets on Lisbon, were also put on a plane for Dakar, Senegal.

Five Die In Crash

WROXTON, Sask. (CP) — Five men, believed from Manitoba, died Friday night when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a loaded cattle truck near here, about 25 miles east of Yorkton, Sask., at the junction of Highways eight and 10.

There were no other passengers in the car. The driver of the truck was slightly injured with facial lacerations, but his passenger was uninjured.

The wreckage of the car, which was found half under the semi-trailer, was towed to a nearby garage where police said oxy-acetylene cutting equipment was to be used to cut open the car and remove the bodies.

The car carried Manitoba license plates. The truck was believed to be from Moose Jaw.

No names were released by investigating RCMP.

U.S. Spaceshot Stays Parked

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Rocket failure ruined an attempt today to send a Ranger 2 spacecraft far into space to investigate techniques for sending future vehicles to the moon and the planets.

A 102-foot Atlas-Agena rocket boomed away from Cape Canaveral at 3:12 a.m. EST. The Agena second stage whirled into a 100-mile-high "parking" orbit but failed to eject the 675-pound Ranger 2 payload into a deep space orbit designed to take it more than 500,000 miles away from earth.

BENNETT RETURNS OPTIMISTIC BUT SILENT ON JFK MEETING

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett said Friday he is "more optimistic than ever" that the Columbia River Power project will go ahead.

He made the statement in an interview at the airport on his return from Seattle, where he attended a Democratic party banquet at which President Kennedy was guest speaker.

They were reported to have held a 15-minute meeting in the president's suite.

Mr. Bennett said he met U.S. officials to discuss hydro power development in B.C.

"The reception couldn't have been more friendly," he said.

However, the premier refused to confirm or deny the private interview with the president nor would he say if they talked about the Columbia.

Sea-Waif Terry-Jo 'Better' — May Tell Shipwreck Story

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An 11-year-old girl, orphaned in a shipwreck she barely survived, was off the critical list today and apparently gaining strength that may enable her to tell what happened on the ill-fated ketch Bluebelle.

Attached at Mercy Hospital said no one would be allowed to question a sunburned, blonde Terry Jo Duperrault of Green Bay, Wis., until she feels up to par.

The girl, taken in semi-conscious condition from a liferaft in the Atlantic Ocean off the Bahamas, now is the only witness to the Bluebelle's breakup with seven persons aboard.

The skipper, Julian A. Harvey, survived the Fort Lauderdale charter boat's destruction but committed suicide Friday, leaving a note that said: "I got too tired and nervous. I couldn't stand it any longer."

Harvey said after being taken to Nassau Monday that the Bluebelle's mainmast snapped, yanked down the smaller mizenmast, and tore holes through the deck. Then he said fire broke out and he had time only to launch a boat and a raft before the 60-foot ketch sank.

With Harvey's death by razor slashes in a Miami motel, the Bluebelle's tragedy toll rose to six. The body of Terry Jo's sister, Renee, was in a boat in which Harvey was picked up Monday.

Only Radiation Threat Delaying Attempt Now

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia is planning to send a man around the moon and back, probably next January, a reliable source here said today.

The man has already been chosen, his space ship has been built and is ready at Baikonur, the Soviet launching ground 100 miles east of the Aral Sea, the sources said. The flight would last five days.

Soviet scientists were reported rocket test launchings to the central Pacific were designed to test the guidance mechanism for the moon probe.

The third cosmonaut will have one main task: To study the moon for the landing of an automatic astronomical observatory.

DISCOUNTS REPORTS

The source discounted reports that the scientists were considering a three-man space orbit around the earth, or of sending dogs to pave the way for the round-the-moon flight.

A manned moon shot would be yet another of Russia's trail-blazing space exploits.

Last April, Russia became the first nation to send a man into space when cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin orbited the earth once.

Then in August, spaceman Gherman Titov was in orbit for 25 hours, although his space ship was equipped for enough food and air for 10 days.

The Soviet scientists were said to consider a three-man space orbit or the launching of dogs preparatory to the moon flight as virtually useless for their carefully planned space program.

They were confident that they had solved the question of propulsion and had few fears of radiation dangers.

The source said recent Soviet research will be aided by an instrument which will greatly magnify the moon's surface. This instrument was carried in Titov's spaceship, the sources said, but its existence does not appear to have been officially announced yet.

The source said the manned flight around the moon will be followed, possibly next autumn, by an unmanned rocket designed to land on the moon and report back a wealth of data.

Two such rocket capsules already have been built, the source said.

Russia apparently was not considering landing men on the moon before 1964, he added.

Some 15 cosmonauts have been undergoing a training course for several weeks, with the course expected to last another week, the source said.

Two of the instructors are Gagarin and Titov.

Some 'Fur Flying' Likely At JFK-Adenauer Talks

WASHINGTON (CP) — Quail-Berlin solution that did not have the prior support of the West there likely will be "some fur flying" Monday when President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met back to back in the prospect that he will hold further talks with Khrushchev.

Meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who had hoped to be the chief Moscow explorer in talking to the Reds on Berlin, has had his hands tied by a lack of a unified Western mandate, American sources said.

SEEK AGREEMENT

Thompson is in Moscow but he hasn't done much exploring. American diplomats had hoped West Germany, France and Britain would renew an earlier agreement that Western views be co-ordinated and that the U.S. continue to be the chief spokesman for the West.

Fleming, De Gaulle Talks In Paris 'Illuminating'

PARIS (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming of Canada had a half-hour talk with French President de Gaulle today and when it was over described it as "most illuminating."

The Canadian minister then drove directly to the airport where his RCAF plane whisked him off to London for a talk with Prime Minister Macmillan Monday.

Fleming and de Gaulle met on the second floor of the Elysee Palace. The talks followed the Canadian minister's presiding over the two-day meeting of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development ended here Friday.

The finance minister used the word illuminating to describe de Gaulle's statement on France's position in regard to current negotiations on Britain's entry into the European Common Market. Fleming declined to give details.

Congo Killings, Fire Rash
BNA Pledge, ECM Split

Airmen slain in Congo.
UN talks of crackdown.
Agree on BNA amendment.

Open mutiny flared in the troubled Congo interior this week following the slaughter and mutilation of 13 Italian airmen of the United Nations force by a band of drunken soldiers.

The killings took place last Saturday shortly after the Italians had flown into the town of Kindu, in Kivu province, with powdered milk and hospital supplies.

The flyers were dining in a UN mess when the mob of some 80 soldiers dragged them out and shot them; then cut up the bodies and tossed pieces to excited onlookers.

The soldiers were part of a mutinous contingent of some 1,000 to 2,000 men sent to invade secessionist Katanga province in the south. Their uprising was disclosed by the UN in Leopoldville Wednesday, but the fate of the Italians was not learned until the following day.

UN SHOCKED

Officials of the multi-nation UN force reacted with cold anger to the Kindu massacre, making clear they would ensure punishment for the murderers if the central Congolese government failed to do so.

Premier Cyrille Adoula also expressed disgust and said "the guilty must be punished with utmost severity."

On Friday, plane loads of UN Malayan troops were flown into Kindu with orders to encircle and disarm the rebellious contingent.

Sture Linner of Sweden, head of the Congo force, re-pledged to UN headquarters in New York that all resources of the Congo command would be used to seal off the Kindu area and round up suspects.

The incident sent a feeling of revulsion and outrage through the UN headquarters, where Acting Secretary-General U Thant considered a request from the UN force for reinforcement.

In the security council Friday, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson suggested the central Congolese government be provided with "a small but effective air force" to deal with secessionist movements.

BLAME KATANGA

In a separate Congo development, a UN investigating commission reported Tuesday that it believed Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's first premier, had been murdered in the presence of high Katanga officials last January. The Katanga, who have insisted Lumumba was shot while trying to escape, denied the UN version.

CENTENARY PRESENT

Canada will be master of its own constitution before its 10th birthday in 1967, Justice Minister Fulton promised in a Montreal speech Wednesday.

Following 18 months of study and discussions with provincial attorneys-general, tentative agreement had been reached on a final amendment to the British North America Act, which would empower Canada for the first time to amend the constitution without consent of the British Parliament.

"We alone, I believe of any free, self-governing country cannot amend our constitution," Fulton said. "I am satisfied this state of affairs is no longer acceptable to the people of Canada."

The firm's intent was to advise clients for a fee on methods by which they could meet their financial obligations.

Their comments arose from the fact that George Drew, Canada's veteran high commissioner in London, was absent from a briefing on Common Market negotiations given by Duncan Sandys, the Commonwealth relations secretary.

The Sunday Times complained that "nobody seems to be able to keep on terms with the Canadian government" and The Observer said "Canadians had adopted an attitude of open obstructiveness."

Drew, however, flatly denied that any snub was intended by his absence from the briefing.

In Ottawa, Opposition Leader Pearson also had some barbed words for the government on its Common Market policy.

"We complain and whine, we preach, bluff, bully and bluster," he said in a TV speech Wednesday night. "This is creating very bad feeling between our two countries." He thought Canada should aim at creation of an Atlantic common market.

COLD WAR NOTES
The cold war simmered through the week with these developments: West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who visits Washington next week, urged that NATO be permitted to use nuclear weapons without U.S. permission.

The U.S. and Britain called on Russia to resume nuclear test ban negotiations in the UN the Soviet and U.S. delegates disagreed on makeup of a disarmament commission. Foreign ministers of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany agreed to meet in Berlin, probably in Paris, next month.

The UN political committee approved resolutions declaring Africa a nuclear-free zone and calling for the outlawing of all nuclear weapons.

SAM RAYBURN DIES
The Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, 79-year old Sam Rayburn, died of cancer in Texas Thursday. He had held the powerful post for 17 of the last 21 years and had been a congressman for almost half a century.

SPACE SUCCESSES
Three U.S. satellites were fired into orbit Wednesday. Two of them went aloft in the same rocket from Cape Canaveral, Fla., while the third, the 35th shot in the Discoverer series, was fired from a California base and caught in the air over the Pacific by a recovery plane on Thursday.

WORLD NOTES
Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip continued their Ghana trip with a visit, in blistering heat, to the Volta River dam site.

The UN political committee voted to condemn South Africa for its racial policies. Demonstrations were held in a number of countries supporting the hunger strike of Algerian rebel prisoners in France. A mock nuclear attack on Canada Monday night—exercise Tocsin B—theoretically killed 2,600,000 people, including the prime minister and governor-general.

Fires plagued Saskatchewan this week, claiming two, and perhaps, three, lives. Mrs. Isabella Carmichael, 78, a wheel chair patient, died and her son, four firemen and another resident of the block were injured Wednesday in a blaze that destroyed downtown Regina's Nash Building.

Police said a fire Tuesday in an oil storage tank near Lloydminster that resulted in the death of Carl Ganske, 28, of Drayton Valley, Alta., and injury to Ken Spiker of Drayton Valley had almost burned out Wednesday. In Saskatoon, two brothers searched for their father, Joseph Dugas, 69, only King Edward Hotel guest still unaccounted for after the hotel was levelled by fire Monday. Minutes after the King Edward blaze was out, nine persons fled the four-block-distant Galtineau Club when it was destroyed by fire.

In Calgary, an early-morning fire Thursday beat demolition crews to the 50-year-old Victoria Arena, levelled the wooden building in an hour. Four firemen were injured in the blaze.

Police in Vancouver said Thursday four men recaptured last month in Vancouver after their escape from Spy Hill jail near Calgary were to be questioned in the gangland-style killing of a fifth escapee, Roderick Chip, 25. An underworld tip led to the discovery of Chip's shotgun - mangled body in a shallow grave in the Burnaby suburb of Vancouver.

Sicilians Protest To US
'Don't Send New Mafia'

By JAMES M. LONG
PALERMO (AP)—Sicilians are complaining that the United States is exporting a dread new Mafia to Sicily where the secret society of vengeance was born centuries ago.

It was from Sicily at the start of the 20th century that the Mafia first found its profitable way into American gangland. There, in the fertile ground of the prohibition era and the protection payoff racket, Mafia emigrants toughened up their ancient organization to become a byword for crime and violent death.

But here it had not always been so, nor is it now.

"The Mafia was founded here as a Sicilian protective society against the wrongs of foreign conquerors. It developed into a secret, but not illegal, organization intended to protect local interests of the various and often bitterly divided Sicilian communities."

A Sicilian here will name no names. But he will tell you plainly: "It was quiet here for 20 years or more. Now they're coming back."

KICKED OUT OF U.S.
He refers to the more than 100 Italians, largely from Sicily, who have been deported back to Italy from the U.S. since the Second World War as undesirable citizens or illegal immigrants.

"They're bringing back a new type of Mafia," a Sicilian informant said. "They're trained in protection rackets and tough new methods we haven't had to deal with here—at least not for many, many years."

The result has been an upsurge of kidnappings, extortions, hijackings and killings that have brought demands before the Italian legislature in Rome for a wholesale investigation and hard-handed police controls.

Manufacturers Support
Jobless Payment Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association added its voice today to proposals that the unemployment insurance fund be returned to sound insurance principles.

The association, representing some 6,400 manufacturers in every line of business in Canada, urged the government to put up the money to restore the near-bankrupt fund to solvency, then run it on an actuarial basis.

In a brief to the special committee of inquiry on unemployment insurance, the association said that seasonal benefits now paid under the act should be scrapped and replaced with a new set of rules banning seasonal workers from coverage during their off-season.

"If it is necessary that some of these people should receive government assistance during these periods of idleness, then this situation should be dealt with under some other provision such as the Unemployment Assistance Act," said the brief.

It also urged that regulations dealing with insurance payments to married women and old age pensioners be changed so that these groups do not constitute a drain on the fund.

Also recommended was an educational program to make the public aware of the limitations of a fund set up on insurance principles.

"Reforms of the act and its regulations are difficult because many members of the public do not understand and appreciate the function of unemployment insurance."

Young Couple's
Throats Gashed

TORONTO (CP)—A young man and woman were found dead with their throats slashed Friday in a midtown Toronto rooming house.

Police launched a province-wide search for a car with United States licence plates seen in front of the house during the night. They said the deaths appeared to be double murder.

Thomas Crater, 30, and Jean Rochelle, 28, both colored, were found dead early today by night post office worker Frank McGuire, a resident of the house.

McGuire returned home from work to find Crater's body, clad only in underwear, sprawled in the front vestibule. The nude body of the woman was discovered on a bed in a third-floor room.

Police said Crater was almost decapitated.

Residents said they knew little about the murdered couple, who moved into the house in September and appeared to be unemployed.

Westbank Man Funeral Held

Several Westbankers traveled to Pentticon to attend the funeral of Mr. Alex Nicol on Thursday, November 16.

The late Mr. A. Nicol was a resident of Westbank for many years. Arriving with his father and brother in 1908, they bought several lots and planted forty acres of orchards.

Later he established the first commercial hauling business in Westbank. He then took over the post office and was postmaster for several years before retiring to Pentticon.

He is survived by his wife Lily in Pentticon.

Delegation Tours Plant Here

Touring the Sun-Rype Products plant this morning, the four-man Russian farm delegation gave one impression—they weren't seeing anything they hadn't seen before.

Several times at the beginning of the tour of Kelowna's famous by-products operation, E. N. Nesky, leader of the delegation remarked through his interpreter that the operation was similar to his own.

All four men are regional heads of large farming co-operatives in the USSR. They arrived in Kelowna at 11 a.m. from Westbank where they toured a poultry farm. At noon, B.C. Tree Fruits were host at a small luncheon for the delegation at the Capri Motor Hotel. From Kelowna, the official party moved on to Vernon.

ACCOMPANIES
Accompanying the delegation was H. W. Trevor of the economic division, Federal Department of Agriculture who was acting as interpreter. "Our tour so far has been most pleasant," said Mr. Nesky through the interpreter. The delegation said they were chiefly interested in seeing the Canadian co-operatives and have found them not unlike those in Russia. They visited the Summerland research station as well as the fruit operations here.

CIVIC COMMITTEE BRIEF

Much Emphasis Placed On City Park Facilities

In its brief to the municipal government, the civic committee investigating the need for an all-inclusive parks and recreation commission, laid much emphasis on present park facilities.

The brief said that while 72 acres of park lands within city boundaries would appear to serve the purpose, Kelowna is serving a population of 23,000 people who live in and around the city. Ideal standard for each school would be more like 10 acres. According to the committee, the result of the problem is that noon time recreation is extended into Bernard Ave.

PROBLEM NOW
To the planners, the most immediate problem is a program for the junior - senior high school area with its enrollment of 1,557 pupils and a net recreational area of just over four acres.

ATHLETIC PARK
The Athletic Park also came under the committee's guns. It was suggested the undeveloped part of some acres be preserved but that shade trees and lawns be developed and facilities for the enjoyment of elderly people be provided, possibly a checker board.

Elks' Stadium presents a poor appearance because of inadequate spectator facilities particularly in left field where the view is cut off by posts, according to the committee.

They suggested the home plate grandstand be torn down and a proper one built on cement foundations with a cement floor under the stands and proper dressing rooms and washrooms installed. Parking around the stadium could be improved by blacktopping the areas.

BALL PARKS
The Little League and softball parks which are reasonably new have to have a lot of work done on them to bring them up to snuff according to the brief which also recommended a baseball park suitable for organized minor baseball at the south end of the city or just outside the city limits.

Costs of providing a well-rounded city-wide recreation program will be $1.50 per capita. It is broken down in the following way: 75 cents for recreation leadership, 50 cents for maintaining facilities, playgrounds, pools, indoor centres and so on and 25 cents for supplies, supplementary personnel and other expenses incurred by such an activity program.

Merchants Warned Of Shoplifting Trio

COMMUNITY CHEST NOW AT $29,250

Kelowna has almost reached its $30,350 Community Chest objective.

However, in order to reach this figure, co-operation is asked of the public who have not yet donated.

Total cash collected by the Kelowna and District Community Chest to date is $29,250 with pledges of between $300 and $100 to be honored soon. John Dyck, campaign chairman, expressed pleasure and appreciation at the response of the public today. He will submit his report next week.

Merchants in the city and up and down the Valley were warned today to look out for a male shoplifter and his female companions.

Information has been received by local RCMP that the group is believed to be traveling in the Okanagan Valley.

Police said they follow a pattern in their shoplifting. One member of the group will help himself to an article of clothing or other merchandise and a second will return it asking for a refund and using the excuse the item is the wrong size or color. Since the merchant usually recognizes the item, no sales slip is required.

Police are investigating.

Women Ancient History To Kelowna Museum Man

By ANNE SMELLIE
Courier Staff Writer

There's not much Ross Walrod doesn't know about women.

Before Kelowna's museum curator found himself in the historical business, he owned a raspberry farm just outside the city and employed more than 100 women each season.

Now that things are quiet around the museum and winter repairs are at a standstill because of the cold weather and the lack of heating at the museum, Mr. Walrod likes to reminisce about the "girls" who helped pick his berry crop from 1942 to 1947.

SUMMER CAMP?

Some were young.

Some were 30.

Many were sponsored by various church groups, and their picking season, which usually lasted six weeks, was more like a summer camp session.

Mr. Walrod provided large roomy quarters for the girls, but in the early days, they slept in seed trays, ate at board tables and sat on upended apple boxes. They brought their own food and there was always an unlimited supply of vegetables from the garden.

In a good season, a girl could make up to $100 for her work but the usual scale of pay was around $25, a lot of money in the war years.

FAVORITE STORY

His favorite story is the crucial year when five Doukhobor girls were en route to the "Rainbow Ranch" as it was called.

With extreme diplomacy, Mr. Walrod suggested a small shack not too far from the main quarters be given to the girls. When they arrived, they pitched right in to clean it out and set up bunks.

Later on, in the fields he suggested they work a little distant from the other pickers. To his amazement, the Doukhobor women started singing and their happiness spread like a virus.

"The other girls were kicking themselves for feeling so hostile to these girls. It was the best summer we ever had," said the curator.

KID GLOVES

Handling so many women required a sturdy pair of kid gloves.

He remembered the time the five Doukhobor women and the rest of the girls were on their way to town for a day off. He suggested they ride in his car while everyone else piled into the truck. The truck drivers were resentful of the special privileges and one of them complained.

Mr. Walrod said he simply explained the others had a chance to get "all dolled up" in town before meeting their dates while the five had had to make all their preparations at the farm, and a truck ride would spoil their appearance.

Not another word was said.

STILL WRITE

Mr. Walrod's girls, many of whom are now married and live in Kelowna, still write. One faithfully sends a Christmas card every year from the U.S., although she worked on the farm more than 15 years ago.

Life has not been all stuffed birds for Kelowna's museum curator.

Auditorium Only $3,400 Short Of Goal

Dave Chapman, who is spearheading the drive for funds for a new community auditorium in Kelowna, reported today the fund now stands at $36,600 or a mere $3,400 from the $40,000 objective.

A $20,000 building will be constructed if the objective is reached.

Mr. Chapman was optimistic that the drive would be successful and he asked public support in the form of donations of any amount in order to put the project over the top. He will report further details of the drive early next week.

Law Firm Offers $500 Reward

A Vernon law firm, Galbraith, Crowe and Adams, have been instructed to offer a reward of $500 for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons alleged to have struck and injured Mrs. Ida Tronson at Vernon on Nov. 13.

Mrs. Tronson, of 2709 Thirty-Ninth Avenue in Vernon, was seriously injured after being struck by a car at the intersection of Thirty-Second Avenue and Thirteenth Street shortly after 6 p.m. on the date in question.

Since that time, driver of the car has not been apprehended. The car failed to remain at the scene of the accident.

The law firm from which the reward offer is made, has instructed that all information is to be given to the Vernon detachment of the RCMP and payment of the reward will be made upon the recommendation of the head of the detachment.

The Gift of Happiness Gives Big Glow

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story written by a local person, who wishes to remain anonymous, shows that happiness and self-satisfaction can be attained by simply concentrating briefly on those who appreciate just a short car ride.

Who I am is not important. Rather it is important that I can reach your understanding.

It takes so little effort to find happiness that it is quite amazing there is so little in the world today. To have happiness, you must give of yourself!

Also, accept from others that their efforts may reach fulfillment. Too, have you ever met a person—just once—and never forgotten them? Many years later, the imprint of that brief meeting is still there. Why? Because they gave part of themselves to you!

Are you remembered in a like manner?

Sunday was a lovely day, so I phoned the David Lloyd-Jones home and asked if there were three people who might like to go for a short drive—I would pick them up in five minutes.

It is generally understood that the people living at the "DLJ" have been residents of Kelowna for some time. I thought, as such, they might be interested in seeing the changes being made to the highway between Kelowna and Penticton. They hadn't been that way for some time and were delighted with the prospect!

I gave these people an hour's drive.

It would take years to tell you what I received from them!

I learned all sorts of interesting things about the area, which only an old-timer would know. I saw all sorts of things I've never seen before and I've driven that road innumerable times!

If you will realize your own happiness is based on giving happiness to others, you're gaining stature and strength. It's so easy to talk to people of 70 and over—particularly strangers. By that age, they have taken the time to relax, highand employ their sense of humor delightfully. It is natural, and normal, that older people should drift together because of common interests and abilities. However, they haven't hibernated, become senile and boring! They like the spice of life just as much as they did when they were younger. Be spicy! Add variety—a bit of yourself to these people's lives. The rewards are tremendous.

There are several boarding and nursing homes in Kelowna for older people. If you don't know any of these residences, I'm sure you could find out from your City Hall.

Have a go at it.

Take an hour of your free time—take some of the older people for a drive. Perhaps they haven't seen a lot of the changes that have been happening in Kelowna—new buildings, and such. You could show them the Capri shops, the changed highways, the view from high up on East Kelowna benches, drive up the west side of the lake to Penticton; out along the Mission Road—even places you haven't seen before. For all you know, you might become the discoverer, by following their directions.

If you don't have a car, or the weather doesn't seem appropriate for a drive, or have some other reason for putting off this little effort, invite them to your home, be it ever so humble, for a cup of tea! You will be giving happiness and, therefore, receiving—as well as broadening your own scope of life, finding more reason for living.

If every person with a car in Kelowna would do this just twice a year, we would have a lot of happy youngsters and elders on our city roster! Don't plan it all out. Be spontaneous! The impromptu invitation, with the element of surprise, is the most fun.

American Common Market Might Be Beneficial

There is increasing evidence that people in this country are giving consideration to Canada joining some common market setup. There have been suggestions that Canada should attempt to join the European Economic Community, while Mr. Lester Pearson, Liberal leader, has advocated the formation of a North Atlantic Community which would include not only the European countries but Canada, the United States, and perhaps other American countries as well.

Now Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny comes forward to advocate an American common market linking the countries of both North and South America. This, he argues, could help solve the trade problems posed for Canada by the European Common Market and at the same time win Latin America for democracy.

In Latin America there are about 200,000,000 people who not only need our products but who in addition are eager for closer relationship with Canada on both the economic and commercial levels and the cultural, intellectual and social levels. There is a whole world there which there is reason to believe needs us, just as we need it.

There is an insatiable demand in the Latin American countries for just about everything Canada could produce, but stable trade agreements would be required if Canadians wished to offer their commodities at competitive prices.

Too often in the past, and even today, our producers have refused to adjust their prices and rates and terms of payment to meet those of the competition in foreign countries, due to the fact that they could sell their entire production in the traditional markets.

However, these days seem to be over, and the possible loss of outlets in the United Kingdom and in Europe should compel us to think about these markets in South America, which are available to us but which we can gain only if we respect the basic laws of trade competition.

It is very late in South America for democracy as we understand it. It may even be too late. But if we do not want communism to win territory beside us, it is time to act and the creation of a common market of the American countries—which could not be achieved overnight—might become one of the formulae which will help us to counter effectively the growing power of the enemy confronting us.

The idea is novel and intriguing. It warrants study.

Jungle Law Policy

There has been considerable to-do recently—and perhaps with justification about fallout and fallout shelters. However the Canadian government's shelter policy is wrong, morally and practically.

It puts survival on a dollars-and-cents basis. It leads to the jungle law of tooth-and-nail clawing for existence.

If the government believes shelters are necessary, it should provide them, not leave it to every man for himself.

The present policy is fomenting fear and it is being commercially exploited by the do-it-yourself program. If shelters are necessary the government should build them. If not, we should stay away from them, for they build up a war psychology.

It is not good national morality to leave shelter building to individuals; only a small portion of our people can afford them. The program encourages the survival of those few. That is wrong. That is immoral. If we are in danger and believe that shelters are the answer to the problem, then the whole nation should be geared to such a program.

The adequate defence against nuclear attack is peace. That is the ultimate issue in home defence. But if shelters can be a partial safeguard, the right to have one should not be only the privilege of those with money to buy one.

The government offers free shelter blueprints. It is like saying to a mother trapped with her children in a burning house: "There is a fire extinguisher down at the store. Why not go and buy it?"

The private family shelter which the government endorses costs a minimum of $300. How many families can lay out that sort of cash? And should family survival be tied to its credit rating?

If the government believes in the danger of a nuclear attack, it should not encourage commercial interests to capitalize on it by a buy-it-yourself shelter program. If it believes that shelters can help ensure national survival, it should provide those shelters.

It is the responsibility of society, of government, to protect families from starvation. It is equally the responsibility of government to try to protect their lives.

HONORARY SORORITY MEMBER

Drug Therapy Pilot Project Starts At UBC Next Spring

By BOB TRIMBEE
VANCOUVER (CP) — Drug therapy, one of the most complex fields facing the practicing doctor, will be the subject of a pilot project next spring at the new department of continuing medicine at the University of British Columbia.

"This field changes so rapidly," says Dr. Donald H. Williams, the department head, "that doctors have trouble keeping abreast of the developments."

Members of the UBC medical faculty will be sent by the department throughout the province next February, to conduct extensive post-graduate courses in this field.

"Studies will detail the use of drugs, outline the latest developments in drug therapy, describe the new agents and areas in which they are effective, list those which should be left alone and correlate basic scientific knowledge leading to good practice," he said in an interview.

"The study will be continued in our first full academic year program, which starts next fall."

ENTIRE FIELD

The department is unique in that its influence will sweep the entire medical field and its allied professional and paramedical teams. It will provide more than refresher courses which now are the limit of work in this sphere at most Canadian and United States universities.

To carry out the plan three divisions have been established. The largest will be the metropolitan areas of Vancouver and Victoria where night classes will be held twice a month.

Regional districts include such areas as the Okanagan and will receive a one- or two-day course once a month. Dawson Creek will be served by special one-day community hospital programs in the district's major or most central hospital.

The plan is being sponsored by the department and the Canadian Medical Association.

nadian Medical Association, B.C. division, and its local associations. It's hoped it will be self-supporting with fees paid by doctors meeting the full operating costs.

Hospitals will play a prominent part as the centre for the courses.

WINNING ATTENTION

The UBC extension department will also play a major role, particularly in work aimed at bringing doctors and other groups in the health team closer together.

Despite its relative infancy, the department of continuing medical education has already come under international attention.

Dr. V. Svasitl Daengsawang, director of the University of Medical Sciences at Bangkok, and Dr. Svasitl Daengsawang, dean-designate of graduate medical education at Bangkok, came here under a Colombo plan grant to study UBC's work in this field.

Their tour will include visits to other Canadian universities. They selected Canada for the study because the medical education system of both countries is similar and developed under the influence of both the American and British systems.

The surprising aspect of their visit is that they seek information to inaugurate a continuing medical education program, while UBC officials hope to integrate the basic medical training of the entire health team as now is done in Thailand, says Dr. Williams.

ENJOY PRESTIGE

A marked difference, says Dr. Skulthal, is that medicine in Thailand is the "glamor" profession while in Canada many bright students are lost to sciences which require less training and finance. The interest in Thailand was generated by the parents of the present king, both of whom were doctors.

"The question of making medicine more attractive to university students is one which our department will study," said Dr. Williams. "UBC, like many other Canadian medical schools, is having trouble recruiting medical students. The length and expense of the course produces many problems for students, especially married students.

"That is why many of our medical graduates are lured away by wealthy U.S. hospitals during their intern and residency training. Surveys show that at least 100 each year leave Canada and few return. This represents the graduating class of two Canadian medical schools."

"And the problem will become more severe. It is a crucial test facing Canadian universities — recruiting medical students and keeping them in Canada after they leave the university."

Prairie Drought Impact Unfolds Across Canada

The dollars-and-cents impact of Prairie drought on the Canadian economy is unfolding slowly.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that effects range from higher feed-grain prices in central and eastern Canada to reduced Prairie retail and farm-equipment purchases.

A preliminary government estimate forecasts the main slump in farm income will occur in early 1962 when grain reserves dwindle.

The bite out of the value of farm produce for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta may run around $380,000,000.

Saskatchewan would suffer most with a dip of $250,000,000, almost halving the 1960 gross value of farm output of $530,000,000, says the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Manitoba would follow, down perhaps $70,000,000 from 1960 at about $245,000,000.

Alberta, where drought missed northern areas, is least affected. R. E. English, Alberta's statistician, estimates gross income will be only slightly less than last year's $49,880,000.

FEAR 1962 CRISIS

Drought again next year—and prospects are not good on the basis of low moisture reserves—would mean a crisis for many. While crops have been better than originally expected in many areas, farm equipment sales have slackened, though it is suggested this may perhaps be due as much to overstocking as to actual drought reaction.

Federal assistance and present-day marketing practices have fattened out the decline in Prairie purchasing power to some extent. Diversity, including special crops and beef, and increased prices have lightened the losses.

"On the whole I was very pleasantly surprised, particularly in northern areas," said Chairman T. J. Rutherford of the Farm Credit Corporation which handles loans to farmers. He has just completed a Prairie tour with field representatives.

Farm equipment sales are down but a belt-tightening attitude appears to have occurred even before the drought, he says. More farmers now appear to feel they can carry on with existing machinery for another year or two.

(Corporation loans totaled $1,000,000 last year and after six months of the new crop year—April 1 to Oct. 1—were running ahead of the 1960 rate at $10,000,000. Alberta alone had taken more than all last year.

OTTAWA REPORT

Maritimes Springboard

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

It is appropriate that our 25th general election campaign should have been launched in Nova Scotia, the province which 113 years ago became the first part of Canada to enjoy responsible government.

For launched the election campaign certainly was, last week and in Nova Scotia, where Conservative chief John Diefenbaker and Liberal leader Lester Pearson both entered the fray—although the date of the actual voting still remains a secret.

Social Credit leader R. Thompson and New Democratic party leader Douglas were also driving along the campaign trail—but in their preferred westerly regions.

Politicians repeatedly make public speeches, but such speeches become campaign backshots when the orator belabors his political opponents. And that is exactly what the gleeful partisan listeners heard last week when Liberal Pearson criss-crossed Nova Scotia, and when Conservative Diefenbaker later followed what he called "that caravan of calamity" to barnstorm Halifax.

Liberals applauded when Finance Minister Donald Fleming was dubbed "the fearless fop" of frenzied finance," and the Prime Minister "Diefenbaker the Disappointing."

THE SIX BUCK BOYS

The Conservatives in turn had their palates titillated by samples of John Diefenbaker's mordant wit at its most damaging. He had only to phrase the names "Martin—and Pearson—and Pickersgill" to arouse hoots of mirth; and as that subsided, he evoked ridicule by adding "misery—and pessimism—and panic." Martin and misery, Pearson and pessimism—Pickersgill and panic.

Still in light vein, John Diefenbaker referred to the achievements of the last Liberal government. Their final act was to consider a $6 increase in the old age pension adequate. All that the electors have left of that government is "Martin—and Pearson—and Pickersgill; the 'six buck' boys."

But mere pandering to the sense of mischief does not constitute an effective political appeal to an intelligent audience; and our Bluecoats cousins are well known for their penetrating intellect and their highly developed political sense. So Mr. Pearson did more than inveigh against the Conservative government for what he termed "inaction and hesitation". He outlined a six-point program to build up the economy of the Maritimes.

This was a good program; but in almost every field, Mr. Pearson must speak against a background of mistrust and disbelief. If these steps are needed, why did not the Liberals implement them during those long 22 years of Liberal rule?

WHERE HAS HE BEEN?

If the people of the Maritimes have cause to question the good faith of Liberal promises today, in view of Liberal records in the past, John Diefenbaker has a more devastating reaction.

"Where has Mr. Pearson been these last four years?" he asked. "He proposes six steps to better the Maritimes; my government has already put five of those steps into effect."

John Diefenbaker recalled the dire predictions of continuing Maritime misery made by the 1956 Gordon commission, named for chairman W. L. Gordon, the Torontonians who is Mr. Pearson's chief economic adviser—"the man behind the man who hopes for the throne."

The insufficient resources of our eastern seaboard offer few opportunities for the Maritime farmers and fishermen and coal miners, said that report. They should move to other parts of Canada.

But, pointed out Mr. Diefenbaker, the Conservative government's program to build up the Maritimes standard of living has given the lie to Mr. Gordon's prediction of gloom and doom. Over the four years of Conservative government, the Nova Scotians have enjoyed a 21 per cent increase in their average income. This compares to the all-Canada average increase of 13 per cent, and is the highest of any Canadian province except—again showing how cruelly wrong was "Maritime" Gordon—Prince Edward Island.

At that the Maritime audience understandably cheered.

The Reverend Krempin officiated and the soloist Mr. Ernest Burnett was accompanied by Mrs. Betke.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a full-length gown of white chiffon and lace. The fitted bodice had a wide scalloped neckline edged with lace, and long lily-point sleeves, and the very full skirt fell gracefully in wide unpressed pleats. Her headdress, made in the shape of a flower with the petals descending over her forehead, held a shoulder-length bouffant veil of net studded with pearls and she carried a bouquet composed of 20 happiness roses and sprays of tiny white 'mums.

Miss Lauba Botosky, sister of the bride, who was maid of honor and the bridesmaid Miss Kathy Baumgarten were charming in shimmer colored peau de soie dresses featuring rounded necklines, three quarter length sleeves and skirts of unpressed pleats. Their headresses were matching bows with small veils and they carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums with centres tinted to match their dresses.

The two small flower girls were the bride's nieces Diana and Lorraine Bertucci who wore pretty dresses of shimmer colored peau de soie with full, short, gathered skirts and headbands of white flowers. They carried baskets of white chrysanthemums also with tinted centres.

Acting as the groom's attendants were Mr. Frank Pre, a white hat complemented with the hofer and Mr. Joe Wingate and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Petch of Kelowna and Mr. Ed. Austria were unable to attend, ward Knopf of Winfield.

At the reception, which was held at the Okanagan Mission Hall, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a dress of cherry colored crepe.

Evans to be held Friday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the Community Hall and the Senior Class with instructor Harry Cox to be held on Friday evenings.

An interesting address was then given by the school principal, Mr. J. Remick, on the subject of the school's new report cards and the new system of marking that has now been adopted. A social hour followed and refreshments were served.

GLENMORE
Glenmore basements and attics are once again being ransacked for articles for the third annual P.T.A. Auction, being held at the Glenmore Elementary School on Saturday evening November 18th at 7:30. It is suggested that everyone bring to the school by 7 p.m. in order to have the opportunity of looking over the many fine items which will be on display. Auctioneers will be Albert Jesse, who, with his jovial manner, contributed greatly to previous auctions, and Jack Cooper, well-known problem-solver on CKOV's "Over The Back Fence" program. A full hall is anticipated for this popular family event, which supplies free pop for all the children. A fish pond, fortune telling, house-plants, home-cooking, and comic book stalls. Contributions are still needed so it is hoped that everyone will not only attend, but also donate whatever items they can spare.

A mothers' auxiliary to the Glenmore Cubs and Scouts was formed last week at a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hume, Glenmore. The purpose of the organization will be to assist the Cub and Scout leaders with many of the duties involved in planning and holding banquets, bottle drives, etc. Chairman of the new auxiliary is Mrs. T. Little Eric Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Olson, is home again after a short stay in hospital. Rev. R. S. Leitch of Cranberry Lake left Tuesday evening after spending several days at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Leitch.

"It's Better To Stay Well Than To Have To Get Well", will be the theme for the one-hour program following the business meeting, when the Glenmore P.T.A. meets at the Elementary School on Monday, November 20th. Guest speakers will include Dr. D. A. Clark, Dr. M. J. Butler, Mrs. R. M. Wilson, Mrs. R. C. Dillabough and Mrs. W. A. Gill. Moderator will be Dr. A. S. Clerke.

CORRECTION
It was incorrectly stated in Thursday's paper that Mr. R. J. Marshall and Mr. W. J. D. Short head the drive to collect a gift to be presented to Mr. Jack Wyatt. It was not Mr. R. J. Marshall but Mr. L. E. Marshall who worked with Mr. Short.

OTTAWA (CP) — Married women have been unjustly accused of being an unfair drain on the unemployment insurance fund, an Ottawa woman told the Gill committee on unemployment insurance Thursday.

Mrs. Svanhult Josie went before the committee of inquiry with a comprehensive 53-page brief proposing an integrated unemployment compensation system linking a National Employment Service with unemployment insurance and unemployment assistance allowances. Mrs. Josie said she started out to make a study of the insurance plan as it affects women to answer charges that married women were abusing the fund. But the deeper she got in her investigation, she said, the more aware she became of other important aspects of unemployment insurance—all summed up in her brief.

A housewife, Mrs. Josie is a graduate lawyer and a graduate in social sciences who has specialized in economic research. Some 12 individuals submitted briefs to the Gill committee, but she is the only one to seek a public hearing in support of her arguments.

TEST NOT NEEDED
On the problem of married women, she said: "The basis of the scheme is that workers who comply with the act and regulations are to receive benefits as of right, with no means test."

"Yet there are oblique suggestions now that women who do not 'need' the money—meaning married women whose husbands are employed—should not be permitted to collect, even when they meet all the regular requirements."

"Unless we are going to return to the policy of the depression years of requiring women to give up their jobs on marriage, it hardly seems consistent to make any distinction between married and single women for the purposes of collecting unemployment insurance."

"Married or single, if a woman is in the labor force and has been contributing to the fund long enough to qualify for benefits, she should be entitled to collect in the event that she loses her job, if she is ready, willing and able to work, but unable to find suitable employment."

ARMSTRONG PLAINT:

We Were Forgotten City In Nation-Wide Tocsin B

ARMSTRONG (Correspondent)—Armstrong was perhaps the only city in Canada Monday to go through Exercise Tocsin B, without official instructions.

This forgetting of the city in the dummy run for H-War, was reported to council this week by chairman, Ald. A. Danallan, of the city's civil defence committee.

After it had been reported the city had received two sets of plans for an outside fallout shelter from the provincial CD co-ordinator, the alderman reported that the local co-ordinator J. Ledue, had received no material, nor information regarding Tocsin B.

Mayor J. Pothecary expressed his concern at the lack of co-operation from regional and provincial officials.

After this, council moved that a letter be sent to the provincial co-ordinator expressing dissatisfaction with the manner in which Armstrong's Civil Defence was being treated in regard to the provision of information.

Major portion of the meeting was concerned with correspondence.

A letter from the Department of Social Welfare, advising that the usual Christmas bonus would be paid to social assistance cases in the amounts of $5 to heads of families and $2 to single persons (over and above their usual allowance) was approved by council.

The Canadian Legion Branch No. 35 wrote regarding street numbering in Armstrong, and suggested a plan for supplying and placing of numbers at a net fee of $1 a residence. Mayor J. Pothecary felt that the proposed changing of street names to numbers may be opposed, and he wished to clear that matter up before proceeding with the plan. The letter was ordered received and filed.

WINTER WORKS

A letter from the Department of Municipal Affairs was received, explaining requirements and provisions of the winter works incentive program. The minister explained the program was mainly intended to assist in employment of persons who are actually unemployed, or those persons who are on social assistance, and foremen of departments who are regularly employed are not eligible for winter works employment.

Ald. W. G. Parker felt in a small community such as this one it is necessary to employ the public works foreman in the same capacity for any winter works project, and that at least part of his wages should come under the program.

Ald. Parker moved that the city write the department explaining the situation, and asking for consideration of a share arrangement when directing winter works projects.

CURLERS PLEA
A letter was received from the Armstrong and District Curling Club, requesting a reduction in taxes from the $206 presently paid to the machinery tax plus $25. Clerk Green said the machinery tax amounted to $56 for 1961.

On behalf of the Club, C. Suter explained the club's position compared to Valley Curling Clubs.

$700 Raised For Minor Hockey

VERNON (Staff)—Vernon and District Minor Hockey Association officials have reported that in their drive for funds which took place Wednesday night in the Vernon area, more than $700 was collected by the young hockey players.

Lumby which is also included in the association have yet to be heard from.

The Vernon club property, which is assessed at three times that of Armstrong's, pays only $100 per year for taxes because Vernon (along with other communities contacted) allows a special rate to the curling club. Clerk Green said this could be done only on a yearly basis.

Mr. Suter pointed out that other recreational organizations in Armstrong are assisted by the Recreation Commission, and since they supply a recreational service to the district also, they feel they should receive some consideration.

After a lengthy discussion council finally passed a motion to reduce the taxes to the requested machinery tax plus $25.

Council accepted an application from S. Bird to purchase lots 19 and 20 owned by the city on Jackson Ave. for their assessed value of $20 each. The clerk was instructed to prepare the necessary transfer forms.

Russians Visit Vernon Today

VERNON (Correspondent)—A party of six agriculturists from Russia, five men and one woman, will be hosted in Vernon today.

They will be accompanied by an interpreter from Ottawa, but a charter was told in police court Friday of a story which started with more than $200 willful damage to Polson Park Sept. 9.

Harry Lord, 19, of the city and Patrick Buick, 17, of Victoria were each fined $200 and sentenced to one day in jail for breach of recognizance.

They had earlier been placed on suspended sentences and a juvenile placed on probation for driving in Lord's car around the park, knocking down an expensive planter, tearing up more than 100 feet of turf and smashing down trees.

A charge connected with damage to a rockery on Twenty-Seventh Street was dropped.

Buick and Lord appeared for sentence Friday on the first charge, breach of recognizance, for breaking earlier suspended sentences.

Magistrate Frank Smith, in imposing penalties for breach, went against the recommendation of County Court Judge Gordon Lindsay that these charges be dropped.

Magistrate Smith said he had given the recommendation very considerable thought, adding: "I would not be justified in following that recommendation."

He commented on the outstanding speakers at this conference, and the benefits gained therefrom. He stated he would like to see something similar held in the Okanagan.

In discussing with the board, high school activities planned, he mentioned that it was the feeling that many students are using inefficient methods of study, a symposium is planned to show the students how to study more effectively.

Trustee Balas, chairman of Buildings and Grounds Committee reported the levelling of the playground north of the M. V. Beattie Elementary School is almost completed, but final grading will have to wait until next spring.

Received from the school material inspector, it was noted that the lighting in the new Grandview Bench School is rated excellent, but the primary room at Mara School is only marginal.

Polson Park Vandalism Case At Final Chapter

VERNON (Staff)—The final chapter was told in police court Friday of a story which started with more than $200 willful damage to Polson Park Sept. 9.

Magistrate Smith said he had given the recommendation very considerable thought, adding: "I would not be justified in following that recommendation."

He commented on the outstanding speakers at this conference, and the benefits gained therefrom. He stated he would like to see something similar held in the Okanagan.

In discussing with the board, high school activities planned, he mentioned that it was the feeling that many students are using inefficient methods of study, a symposium is planned to show the students how to study more effectively.

Trustee Balas, chairman of Buildings and Grounds Committee reported the levelling of the playground north of the M. V. Beattie Elementary School is almost completed, but final grading will have to wait until next spring.

Received from the school material inspector, it was noted that the lighting in the new Grandview Bench School is rated excellent, but the primary room at Mara School is only marginal.

Christ pointed out two sources in life, one through a wide gate down a broad and easy path "to destruction," the other through a narrow gate down a hard trail of self-discipline "to life." Only a few find the latter.

Christ asked, "What does it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses or forfeits himself?" He advised His followers to take up their own crosses for His sake, "for whoever loses his life for My sake, he will save it."

Paul advised the Corinthians to exercise self-control as an athlete does so he can win the laurel wreath of victory. For Christians the prize is a glorious and eternal one—a part of the "divine nature."

Paul also said not to "let the sun go down on your anger." Self-discipline is essential to avoid petty anger and jealousy, which harms the originator more than its object.

Agent Held In Killing

MUNICH (AP)—West German police have arrested a former Soviet agent in connection with the mysterious death of the legendary Stetson "Bandera," anti-Soviet guerrilla leader from the Ukraine.

The West German prosecutor's office in Karlsruhe said to the police are holding 29-year-old Leonid Stashinski, who was reported to have admitted he killed Bandera in October, 1959, with a poison spray pistol.

Stashinski has been under arrest since Sept. 1, the office said.

Russian exile sources said Stashinski deserted the Soviet secret police and turned himself in to West German police because he feared for his own life. Bandera, who at one time was reported to have directed a 200,000-man guerrilla army in the Ukraine, died in Munich Oct. 15, 1959. At first it was assumed he died from a fall in the stairway hall of one of his many hideouts here. But an autopsy showed cyanide in his stomach.

At the time, his associates charged he was murdered in a Moscow-directed plot. Russian exile sources said Stashinski also admitted killing Lew Rebet, Ukrainian resistance leader and writer whose death on Oct. 12, 1957, was attributed to a heart attack.

Anglican Church Marks Its 100th Year In Yukon

WHITEHORSE, YUKON: The Anglican Church of Canada is this year celebrating its 100th anniversary in the Yukon.

In May, 1861, Rev. William West Kirby, an Anglican clergyman, left Fort MacPherson, crossed the Rockies and travelled by canoe down the Porcupine River to Fort Yukon. He was welcomed so eagerly that he returned the next summer with an assistant, Robert McDonald, a young half-breed clergyman from Manitoba, who later became an Archdeacon.

For more than 40 years McDonald pioneered. He translated the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer, and hymns into the Tutchuk Indian dialect. These books are still in use. He found gold in the Yukon River and reported it in a letter to the London Times, 25 years before the Klondike gold rush.

Descendants of Fort Louché Indians still live at Old Crow on the Porcupine where a church was built in memory of Archdeacon McDonald.

Rev. Richard Martin, 80-year-old blind Louché Indian deacon, leads prayers, from memory, in St. Barnabas, Moosehide, and at St. Paul's, Dawson. He uses Archdeacon McDonald's original translation.

FIRST BISHOP

Another pioneer William Bompas, came from England to help McDonald. He became first Bishop of the McKenzie River, then Selkirk, then Yukon. Halfway through his episcopate the Klondike Gold Rush brought the White Pass narrow gauge railway from Skagway, Alaska, to Whitehorse. Work among the white residents increased with the influx of miners.

Robert W. Service, sordough poet, was the secretary of the vestry when the old log church at Whitehorse was built in 1900. Dawson had 40,000 people then, but Whitehorse remained a village of 600 until the construction of the Alaska Highway.

Isaac Stringer, a Canadian supported by Canadians, worked first among the Eskimos and whaling crews at Herschel Island. In December 1905 he succeeded Bishop Bompas and lived in Dawson until his election as Archbishop of Rupert's Land in 1931.

The present English-born Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Tom Greenwood, moved his cathedral to Whitehorse in 1953 and is the first, since Archbishop Stringer, to live all year round in the Yukon.

At Whitehorse in the diocese of the Yukon last January Bishop Greenwood had eight priests and a deacon working with him. With the aid of a Church Army Captain and a woman worker he had every mission served.

Religious Issue In Adoption

TORONTO (CP)—Ward Markle, director of the Roman Catholic Children's Aid Society of Toronto, Thursday night assailed a court ruling permitting the adoption of a Protestant couple of a child baptized a Roman Catholic at birth.

In a written decision Judge Joseph Little of Parry Sound allowed Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lamb of South River, Ont., to adopt their foster son Joey, 4, who they took into their home when he was 23 days old.

Mr. Markle said the emotional disturbance involved in the Lamb case does not detract from the fact a child born into the Roman Catholic faith has the right to be reared in that faith.

(In his decision the judge made no ruling as to what faith the boy should follow.)

RELIGION A RIGHT?

"The rights of children are gradually being recognized in the world today," Mr. Markle said. "The United Nations has drawn up a bill of rights for children and surely a child's religion is one of those rights."

He said Roman Catholics have always considered that the section of Ontario's Child Welfare Act which prohibits Roman Catholic children being placed in Protestant homes by Catholic children's aid societies precludes inter-faith adoptions.

W. H. Bury, Ontario's director of child welfare, said Thursday night provincial Children's Aid Societies have not attempted to arrange inter-faith adoptions because they aren't willing to take a chance of breaking the law.

"I think myself," he added, "that the broad interests of the child should be considered before anything else."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The countdown has been completed. At the word "zero," electronic miracles happen. The rocket zooms skyward, and seems to penetrate the infinite.

But it hasn't. Man's greatest efforts fall far short of solving the mystery that is life itself. The answer is known only unto God. And man's greatest troubles still concern not the universe but man himself, and his fellowmen.

The greatest scientists today realize even more acutely than most of us the limitations of mankind. From deep, personal experience they know how desperately man needs God's love and His guidance. And they know, too, that no matter how "invincible" their rockets may become, in the end, true peace can be achieved only by God's own workings within the hearts and minds of men.

Pray for this kind of peace in church next Sunday.

Eugene Kreibich of Kelowna is attempting to form a Chess Club in Kelowna. To date, he has received 25 inquiries about the club, all of which were from potential players.

Kreibich, who for years played "chess in Germany," was at one time Rhine Main Master which means he was a player in a certain district of the Rhine Valley. A professional chess player, different from our understanding of the word, Kreibich has been playing chess for many years.

A professional chess player enters tournaments, going many long hours in the sport of the mind.

MOST CITIES HAVE ONE

Most cities do have a chess club, and apparently the "sport" is catching on quite rapidly in Canada.

This deck is usually filled with reports from our wire service about national or international chess tournaments, and always receipt of these causes a few readers about what is happening to the sport world. Our reasoning is that one of the featured elements of sport is it is commonly known is missing.

Our reasoning is that checkers, or monopoly, or snakes and ladders must be a sport if chess is.

The grunt and groan element is not there. All the anguish is mental, not physical. Most are in it, but one telling us that sport is a word almost synonymous with brain.

AN INTELLECTUAL GAME

Sport of course is an intellectual game.

Mr. Kreibich may be able to clear up this matter. I'm not attempting to knock formation of the club, which should provide many hours of entertainment to some individuals.

Surprisingly enough, chess can be a spectator sport, with bookers on apparently following plays and players avidly. And kibitzing a little on the side. "Vat you doing, you dumb nut, Hinner? You want to get rocked, maybe?"

All the luck in the world to formation, which should go over in Kelowna. Thoughts for the future? An Okanagan Valley Chess League.

A CHESS LEAGUE

Donation of cups and awards, and regular annual, semi-annual tournaments. Quite a thought.

Interested parties can get in touch with Mr. Kreibich at 3075 Abbott St., or by phoning PO 25437.

Mr. Kreibich has also offered to teach student clubs. One with 20 participants is apparently already formed in Mission School, and, as we understand it, most junior and senior high schools have a chess club.

Mr. Kreibich said he would like to teach younger people with an eye to perpetuating interest.

ET TU KELOWNA?

Although the season is still five months down the road, Los Angeles Dodgers have broken the baseball record for advance sales with a figure of more than $3,000,000. According to The Examiner.

That paper's writer Bob Hunter says the club has sold 11,786 season box seat tickets although no tickets have been printed.

LIGHTWEIGHT BOUT

Carlos Ortiz, No. 2 ranking lightweight contender, meets Paolo Rosti in Madison Square Garden tonight and the winner has been promised a title shot against Joe Brown, the busy Houston battler. Ortiz is an 11-5 favorite to defeat his opponent.

WEST COAST'S BIGGEST SPIEL

Two prairie rinks and four from the Western United States are among the 150 entries listed for the Totem bonspiel, which opens its six-day stand here Sunday afternoon.

TRY PAYOLA

In basketball, it seems eventual supremacy for the Royalties isn't just a matter of talent. As the Royalties core, the Orville referees get tougher. Royalties led a half-time Thursday night in Oroville, plunking the merchants.

Why don't you try payola, fellows?

Junior Buckaroos meet Vernon Canadians tonight in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m.

If Buckaroos again bounce (they will) the Vernon guns, manager Bob Giordano will put his second mark on the wall for the day. His wife, Edna, gave birth to a son in Kelowna General Hospital at 5:20 a.m.

Congratulations from the editorial staff of the Kelowna Daily Courier.

FOLLOW THE BIRDS

Bob Hall's Meikle Teddy Bears are following the birds to Victoria. They left early this morning.

The Royalties don't play this weekend. The Teddies play Victoria Sunsets. They've met them in B.C. Finals for a number of years, and are familiar opponents as such.

Follow The Birds to Victoria, of course, is that City's motto or something. Kelowna having been nicknamed Little Victoria by some people, we decline to say anything about that.

Bombers Step Wide Of Stampede In Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg setting up next Saturday's game at Winnipeg Stadium as the deciding one.

The Bombers have fullback Charlie Sheppard in the lineup after 14 days of rest. Stampede plan to play the same men that defeated Edmonton Eskimos 27-26 in last weekend's total-point semi-final. That means Lovell Coleman playing halfback for Ed Buchanan, and Jim Walden taking Coleman's spot at corner linebacker.

Kenny Ploen will start as Bomber quarterback, a position he held with authority by Eagle Day, the signal caller acquired by Stampede at mid-season from Washington Redskins.

Ploen was the first string quarterback for Winnipeg in 1956. Grant said Ploen, an excellent safety man on defense, is his first string quarterback over Hal Ledyard because he knows Western Conference defensive formations inside and out.

"Ploen can spot a man out of position without even looking at him," Grant said.

"We didn't want to intrude," he said Friday night. "The boys are funny that way, but they don't want to associate with the other team."

"They're nice guys and all that, but they would feel a little queasy walking by a guy like (tackle Don) Lonsantries, under the circumstances, would be ridiculous."

However, Bombers plan to invade McMahon Stadium at 2 p.m. MST today, when between 17,000 and 20,000 fans are expected for the opener of the best-of-three series.

A coat of green paint has been given the ragged turf a new look in a measure approved by Stamp general manager Jim Finks.

Expected cool weather held off all day Friday, but a good ground conditions for the game, even if the temperature may be a chilly 35.

The Bomber coach expects the series to go the limit, Stampede winning either 22 or 23 points for the winners and a Winnipeg next Wednesday, Mel Brown followed with 18.

STILL NOT SIGNED

CALGARY (CP) — End Ernie Weidick will line up with Calgary Stampede for the remainder of the Western Football Conference playoffs but he still hasn't signed a contract, club general manager Jim Finks said Tuesday.

Warlick's relationship with the Stampede hasn't changed since he refused early in the fall to renew his contract and began playing out his option.

NEW MANAGER

VANCOUVER (CP) — John A. Jack McKeon, 31, is the new manager of the Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League. He succeeds Billy Hitchcock, who went to Baltimore Orioles of the American League.

BASKETBALL WIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Mounties defeated Victoria 100-81-72 Tuesday night before 10,000 fans in City Basketball League.

Inter-City Basketball League series to go the limit, Stampede winning either 22 or 23 points for the winners and a Winnipeg next Wednesday, Mel Brown followed with 18.

ADJUSTING TO JOB

Doug Harvey is adjusting himself so well as player-coach of New York Rangers that he is being boomed as potential coach of the year and most valuable player although National Hockey League season is less than one-quarter finished. Harvey is a Montreal native, and was named the league's outstanding defenceman seven times in the 14 years he played with the Canadiens.

Tickets Selling Fast For Sunday EFC Final

TORONTO (CP) — As of Friday night, fewer than 200 Exhibition Stadium tickets remained unsold for Sunday's opener of the Eastern Football Conference final.

At that rate, Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats could well launch the two-game, total-points round before a bigger crowd than will witness the Grey Cup spectacle here Dec. 2.

The fans are almost certain to surpass in number the 32,624 Eastern Conference record set at the same park last year for a game with Ottawa Rough Riders. And because of a new Hooliganism at last year's cup game in Vancouver prompted the edict. Crowds pouring in from the sidelines forced a premature end of the game between Ottawa and Edmonton Eskimos with 41 seconds left on the clock.

To avoid a repetition, the league ruled no track seats or standing room could be sold. That will cut 560 from exhibition stadium's normal capacity of 33,135.

The Argos were free to sell standing room Sunday but decided against it.

GIVES HIS REASONS

"We would require additional crowd-control measures, and for the money involved it just isn't worth it," said managing director Lew Hayman.

FABLED COW PALACE OPENS TO 9,490 FANS

Seals Overpowered 5-3 By North Division Flyers

The fabled Cow Palace opened its doors to Western League Hockey Friday night, and 9,490 fans watched Coley Hall's San Francisco Seals overpowered by an injury-riddled Edmonton Flyers.

Seals started the season with an exhausting 14-game road trip that left them deep in the Southern Division cellar.

The Seals dropped a 5-3 decision to Edmonton Flyers, leaders of the league's Northern Division. San Francisco is in last place in the Southern Division.

Spokane Comets continued their move towards first place in the Southern Division by humiliating Vancouver Canucks 8-0 and Seattle Totems edged Calgary Stampede 6-5.

Edmonton winger Forbes Kennedy scored three goals, including the winner, as the Flyers maintained their eight-point lead over second-place Seattle.

Ed Joval and defenceman Floyd Haddon scored Edmonton's other goals. Buddy Boone, with two, and Bob Solinger connected for the Seals.

Kennedy's power-play goal at 10:54 of the final period broke a 3-3 tie. Joval added the insurance goal as Edmonton made it 5-3.

A crowd of 2,753 found little to cheer about in Vancouver as Spokane raced to a 4-0 lead in the first period and wrapped up the win with three more goals in the second.

SPARKS SPOKANE
Coley Hall's Spokane Seals led Spokane with two goals while Gerry Brisson, Max Meklik, Steve Wituk, Jim Holladay, Rev. Bell and defenceman Bill Shveta added singles.

Ed Johnston stopped 28 shots in recording the shutout. At the other end, Claude Evans of Vancouver fanned out four shots and had a fifth shovelled past him by one of his own defencemen.

Spokane is now one point back of first-place Portland Buckaroos in the Southern Division while Vancouver remains in the northern cellar.

A capacity crowd of 4,350 at Seattle saw the Totems score four times in the final period to defeat Calgary, the Northern Division's third-place team.

Bill MacFarland led Seattle 10:54 of the final period broke a 3-3 tie. Joval added the insurance goal as Edmonton made it 5-3.

Verdun crushed Toronto East York 24-7 last week to win the Eastern championship. The Shamcats displayed a hard-rock defence which kept the Toronto squad in their own end of the field until halfway through the second quarter.

Walter Kumanec, a 225-pound fullback who led Shamcats scoring this year, heads the Verdun ground attack.

Last week Kumanec scored two of Verdun's five touchdowns on smashes through the line covering 15 and 43 yards.

"Wally puts life into the team," said Tsonos. "Last week he tackled the big East York fullback on a kickoff so hard I didn't think either of them would get up."

BULLDOGS' ATTACK HARD
Evidence from the West suggests the Bulldogs aren't palsies. When the same two teams met for the title last year in Winnipeg, the St. Vital squad came up with a hard-running ground attack to drop the Shamcats 21-8.

The Bulldogs have a powerful runner in fullback Wayne Hanna, who scored a touchdown on a line plunge last week. Backs Peter Watt and Keith Webster are the other two high scorers in the St. Vital backfield.

The Bulldogs showed a strong defence and a balanced offence with the stress on running when they whipped the New Westminster Royals 28-7 for the Western title.

Verdun is counting on the advantage of playing on home ground.

Kelowna Golden Owls and Okanagan Hawks will travel to Salmon Arm for two exhibition games.

These will be the first High School games played in the new Salmon Arm High School. Golden Owls have fielded a short but fast team. Kelowna's main offence should be the fast break.

The Seacer season ended with Rutland trouncing Kelowna 4-1 in the last and deciding game. Rutland then advanced to play Vernon in the Valley finals last Saturday. Vernon came out on top with a thrilling 2-1 victory, which gave them the Valley championship for the second consecutive year.

First volleyball practices have been held and a very good turnout was evident for both girls and boys. The teams will be coached by Mrs. D. Varney and Mr. P. Kuhn. The High School Curling Club is well under way and results of games played will be given periodically.

FRIDAY'S FIGHTS
Tolowa, N.I. — Stefan Redi, 147, Clifton, N.J., and Virgil Atkins, 147½, St. Louis, drew, 10.

San Diego, Calif. — Paulie Armstrong, 135, San Diego, outpointed Tony Perez, Hermosillo, Mexico, 10.

Philadelphia — Rick Conli, 129, Philadelphia, outpointed Jackie Lemon, 132, Philadelphia, 8.

Worcester, Mass. — Ronnie DeCost, 110, Brockton, Mass., outpointed Carlos Zayas, 112, Holyoke, 10.

Melbourne, Australia — Don Johnson, 139, Los Angeles, hosts 28-23 and collected four of the six penalties handed out in the game.

ROSSLAND'S Netminder Shuts Out Kimberly 8-0

ROSSLAND (CP) — A six-goal first period and the outstanding goaltending of Gerry Zannussi gave Rossland Warriors an 8-0 shutout Friday night over Kimberley Dynamiters before some 600 Western International Hockey League fans.

Wiggy Davis was top man for the Warriors with three goals. Gerry Godfrey, Norm Picco, George McIntyre, Owen Malley and Lorne Nadeau scored the others.

Davis scored all his three goals in the first period. The second period was scoreless. Rossland scored their final two goals in the third despite Kimberley's two-man advantage. The Warriors outshot their hosts 28-23 and collected four of the six penalties handed out in the game.

What happened to Chicago? He's indicated that an asterisk in last season's Stanley Cup playoffs, sweeping through the BATTLE FIELDS.

Now with the NHL, one-quarter deep into its schedule, Chicago is struggling for a grip over the team.

A fourth of early season injuries beset the Hawks. They lost key men such as Bill Hay and Pierre Plante, the scrappy little defenceman who loves to throw his weight around.

But it seems to be something more than that.

Coach Rudy Pilon says the club has collected only 36 schedule, Chicago was locked in a battle for second spot with the Red Wings and Toronto.

You have to go to 15th place in the league, scoring race to Maple Leaf.

The Hawks ultimately finished in Chicago's marksmanship. It's a born Stan Mikita, who lashed third, knocked off Montreal in a Stanley Cup semi-final 4-0, and nine assists for 13 points.

There's another big lapse before you come to overtime against champ Bobby Hull, a 10-point man.

HORSE IS HIDDEN TREASURE CANADA'S FINEST OF YEAR

TORONTO (CP) — Hidden Treasure, a four-year-old owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto, was named Canada's horse of the year Friday in the annual poll conducted by The Daily Racing Form.

All but one of the 17 turf writers, handicappers and sports editors participating chose the son of Kentucky Derby winner Dark Star and Rapture. The lone dissenter favored Song of Even, a three-year-old filly owned by Windfields Farm of Toronto.

Hidden Treasure has a life-time record of 15 stakes victories, more than any other Canadian-bred. He won four this year, was second six times and third once in 12 starts.

A PERSONAL PLEA!

Dear Friends,

Medical Research points out that new cases of active TB can be counted on to arise each year among the many of us who are actually infected with the tuberculosis germ, but have so far been healthy enough to resist actual illness.

Regular TB skin tests and X-rays can lead to early discovery of the infected group and precautions can be taken to prevent actual illness.

PLEASE — do your part to stamp out TB

Have your Free TB skin test

Have your Free chest X-ray

Rosalie Hooper

Christmas Seal Committee
 Chairman,

A tiny drop of fluid in the skin will show whether or not this youngster has been infected with the germs that cause tuberculosis. Tuberculin testing programs are supported by the sale of Christmas Seals now being conducted by the tuberculosis associations across Canada.

Alan Fujiwara, designed the Christmas Seals being used in this year's Christmas Seal Campaign across Canada. A native Vancouverite he now lives in Toronto where he has an international reputation in art circles.

A reader sends this hand with which he bid six hearts and made seven. The overtrick would not have been important except that the deal was played in a duplicate game, where an extra trick is sometimes just as valuable as beating the opponents 1,400.
You might want to test yourself before reading on to see whether you can find a way to make all the tricks. It takes quite a bit of doing.
Declarer wins the diamond

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
It may be somewhat difficult to distinguish between worthwhile propositions and questionable schemes now, so be careful. Deal gently, but firmly, with anyone seeking to take advantage of you. The late afternoon and evening hours favor sentimental matters and artistic pursuits.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, it would be well worth your while to put forth best efforts now, both in job and financial matters, since your horoscope indicates that between now and July you will find many business opportunities on which to capitalize.
Social, romantic and domestic affairs will be in the celestial spotlight during the next six months, so your immediate future seems well-rounded and happy. Late 1962 promises unusually success for you in the legal, medical and entertainment fields.
A child born on this day will be diligent, conscientious and extremely generous.
